Dear Parents/Guardians,

On September 20 and 21, all 2nd - 5th grade teachers will administer the InView assessment to their students. The InView consists of five cognitive ability tests designed to assess the academic aptitude of students, including those of a relatively abstract nature that are important to success in an educational program. The tests measure sequences, verbal reasoning in words and context, analogies and quantitative reasoning abilities. The testing may take up to two hours. Anyone who is not present these days will be able to make up the assessment based on scheduling and availability. Similar to an IQ test, there is no studying necessary.

If your child has an Individualized Education Program or IEP, s/he will not participate in the InView testing as an IQ score was determined as part of the eligibility determination process. During the time the other students are participating in the InView assessment, your child will be working directly with their special education teacher.

The test results are used as an internal diagnostic tool by our professional staff.

Should you have any questions regarding the InView testing, please contact me.

Warm regards,

Caridad Chrisomalis
